

3D Optical Illusion Heart

1. Cut out a heart shape from paper. This will be your heart template.
(This really helped my kids. It was tough for them to draw a heart free hand.)

2. Using a pencil, trace the heart shape onto a piece of lined (or unlined paper).
Unlined paper gives really beautiful results, but it's hard drawing straight lines.
So the lined paper provided nice guidelines.

3. Then, draw lines through your heart with markers.
(Crayons didn't work as well for us!)

The lines should be straight on both sides of the heart and curved through the heart.
(We found the bottom of the heart to be relatively straight forward and the top curvy bits a bit confusing. It was tough to keep track of the sections that should be straight and those that should be curved)

See how the heart seems to pop out? Pretty neat!

Drawing more lines to gives the picture a different effect.
